CONFERENCE AT A GLANCE . . .

WELCOME to the 22nd Annual Idaho Conference on Alcohol and Drug Dependency!

The Mission of the Idaho Conference on Alcohol and Drug Dependency is to provide collaborative learning to enhance skills for interdisciplinary practice in the fields of addiction treatment, mental health, criminal justice, health care, and allied human services.

THIS YEAR'S CONFERENCE INCLUDES:

• 5TH ANNUAL IDAHO DRUG COURT INSTITUTE

Idaho's only statewide opportunity for drug court professionals to receive interdisciplinary and specialized training along with current updates on the "state of the science" for effective drug court operations. Keynotes and workshops have been selected to respond to the most current "hot topics" facing Idaho Adult and Juvenile Drug Courts.

• 1ST ANNUAL IDAHO MENTAL HEALTH COURT INSTITUTE

Idaho's first statewide interdisciplinary event for the many collaborating professionals providing integrated criminal justice and treatment interventions to the seriously and persistently mentally ill offender. A very special feature of this Institute is a "repeat Idaho engagement" by Dr. Kenneth Minkoff, the architect of integrated mental health and substance abuse treatment.

• ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS . . . AND AA / NA MEETINGS AT THE CONFERENCE!

The Conference is again featuring open 12-Step meetings on Monday and Tuesday morning, and a Tuesday evening speaker meeting, to emphasize the importance of this widely available recovery support system and to provide opportunities for conference attendees to experience this powerful fellowship.

• "OUTSIDE THE BOX" WORKSHOPS

This year's Conference includes content and experiential formats that offer alternatives to mainstream treatment. These workshops will be indicated by the open brown box symbol on the Grid of Courses and Sessions on page 14 and next to the relevant Workshop Descriptions on pages 8-12.

ICADD CONFERENCE LOCATION AND CONFERENCE AGENDA

CONFERENCE LOCATION BOISE STATE UNIVERSITY

ICADD returns to Boise State University in May 2006 for its annual Conference. Boise State University is Idaho's metropolitan research university, located in the State's population center and capital city, Boise — a hub for government, business, the arts, healthcare, industry, and technology. The city of Boise is ranked No. 1 by Forbes in its 2005 Best Places for Business and Careers, and No. 2 by Inc. in its 2005 Best Places for job growth.

The largest university in Idaho with more than 18,500 students, Boise State offers undergraduate, graduate, and technical programs in eight colleges with more than 180 fields of interest.

In addition to its main campus in Boise, the university operates centers in Canyon County, Mountain Home Air Force Base, Gowen Field, and Twin Falls. The university also delivers classes via the Internet, compressed video, microwave, cable, computer conferencing, and radio.

This map shows the northeast portion of BSU. The light blue highlighted areas show the location for the Conference and the Parking Area near the Stadium.

Tattoos on the Heart: Empowering Those for Whom Hope is Foreign

Father Gregory J. Boyle, S.J.

Father Gregory J. Boyle has worked tirelessly to provide love and support to children whose homes are so emotionally impoverished and destructive that they join gangs in search of a surrogate family. He believes that community involvement and instilling a sense of hope is essential to bring about change. Father Boyle has innumerable stories and case studies he can utilize to illustrate his teaching points.

Father Gregory J. Boyle, S.J. is the founder and director of a widely acclaimed youth violence prevention program in East Los Angeles. This Jesuit priest founded Homeboy Industries, a collection of small businesses staffed by former gang members, at-risk and gang-involved youth—an economic development and job training program, and Jobs for a Future, an employment referral center. Its ventures began with Homeboy Bakery, which trained many gang members to become scratch bakers, and has grown to include services such as landscaping, graffiti removal, silk screening, and more. It is located in the Boyle Heights area of Los Angeles, California, which includes the largest public housing program west of the Mississippi. Father Boyle was Pastor of the area's Dolores Mission Church from 1986-92. Dolores Mission is the poorest parish in the Los Angeles Catholic Archdiocese, and its housing projects have the highest concentration of gang activity in the entire city. Father Greg is often interviewed on radio and TV about his extraordinary life journey and his work with Latino gang members in East L.A. He has been featured on 60 Minutes and in People Weekly. His work and life story are chronicled in Father Greg and the Homeboys and its updated version, G-Dog and The Homeboys.

Monday, May 15 – 10:00 A.M.

Bridges Out of Poverty

Jodi Pfarr, M.Div.

Individuals from poverty think and act differently than those who come from a middle or upper economic background. Economic class differences can make teaching, learning, and providing services a challenge. Yet, despite the obstacles poverty can create in all types of interaction, there are specific strategies for overcoming them. This keynote address gives practical advice and key lessons to those who work with individuals from poverty and disadvantaged families. Topics include increasing awareness of the differences in economic cultures, how those differences impact opportunities for success, developing an action plan to improve services to clients, identifying intervention strategies that are effective in any discipline, and improving retention rates for new hires from poverty. This address is based on Dr. Ruby K. Payne's work and book, Bridges Out of Poverty: Strategies for Professionals and Communities.

Jodi Pfarr has gained a national reputation as a presenter with an engaging style. She is a consultant for aha! Process, Inc., the innovative organization founded by Ruby Payne. In addition, she is a consultant assisting Catholic Charities staff with skill development and program enhancement. This follows her post as Transitional Housing Manager, managing low-income housing for those coming out of shelters or off the streets. She has managed a special needs shelter and women's shelter for the Salvation Army for those with mental illness, disability, or physical ailments. Amongst her current activities, Ms. Pfarr is also a chaplain with a Masters in Divinity and a certified debriefer for the St. Paul Police Department [Minnesota].

Tuesday, May 16 – 8:45 A.M.

Reclaiming the Futures of Youth Caught in the Cycle of Drugs, Alcohol, and Crime

Laura Burney Nissen, Ph.D., MSW

Teens in trouble come from many walks of life but disproportionately from low-income areas, communities of color, and often have other problems besides drug or alcohol abuse, such as coming from abusive or neglectful families. These young people are in need of help, yet many go without treatment, often because of lack of coordination between service providers or lack of access to substance abuse treatment programs. Dr. Nissen will share how Reclaiming Futures, a five-year demonstration project, is changing the way communities help teenagers who are overcome and caught in the cycle of drugs, alcohol, and crime. Reclaiming Futures' mission is to provide new opportunities and standards of care in juvenile justice by bringing communities together, creating new ways for juvenile courts, treatment service providers, community members, and families to expand, coordinate services, and work together to reclaim the lives of youth in the juvenile justice system.

Laura Burney Nissen has spent sixteen years working with youth in the treatment and juvenile justice arenas, specializing in encouraging innovation through dynamic community and cross-agency partnerships. She was a member of the founding team of the Denver Juvenile Justice Integrated Treatment Network, as well as the Center for High Risk Youth Studies in Denver. Dr. Nissen has worked with state and federal agencies to encourage system-wide recognition and utilization of strength-based methods in youth services, and as a consultant and presenter for federal and state organizations on how to create youth services that are developmentally, culturally, and gender-relevant. She is an associate professor of social work at Portland State University Graduate School of Social Work. She currently serves as the national program director for Reclaiming Futures, a project of The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation.

The Research on Motivation: The Change Conditions of Desire, Ability, Reason & Need

Michael D. Clark, LMSW, CAC

Motivation is a state, not a trait, and can be influenced by strategic efforts. While most staffing groups are well-versed in the many forms of client resistance such as arguing, interrupting, avoiding, and ignoring, many are not as familiar with the behaviors and language of client change. Consider that there are forty years of science regarding problems and how clients “fall down”, but our field has not placed the same attention to the science of behavior change and how clients “get up” and move out of their predicaments. This address will educate on the critical ingredients to behavior change as outlined in new research [Duncan, Hubble, and Miller, 2005; Miller and Rollnick, 2002] helping staff to spot when a client has “turned the corner”, increase focus and vigilance to the conditions that foretell when change is imminent, and what can be done to increase the conditions necessary for positive behavior change to occur. This keynote address speaks to the science of “getting up”.

Michael D. Clark is a Consultant, Trainer, and an Addictions Therapist. With twenty years of direct practice with mandated clients, he is currently the Director of the Center for Strength-Based Strategies in Michigan. This organization places special emphasis on skill-building for direct practice and on building the capacity for strength-based approaches within justice organizations. He is a member of the Motivational Interviewing Network of Trainers, a registered consultant for the U.S. Dept. of Justice–NATTC, and a member of the Association of Training and Staff Development. He has presented throughout the United States, Europe, Canada, the Caribbean, and Micronesia. With more than twenty articles and book chapters to his credit, he has valuable information to share about motivation and creating positive change in clients.

Thursday, May 18 – 8:45 A.M.

Is Addiction Really a “Disease”?

Kevin T. McCauley, M.D.

The ongoing debate continues . . . is addiction a “disease” or a “choice”? This keynote address outlines both arguments and provides evidence for why, in Addiction Medicine, doctors believe that addiction is, in fact, a disease. The most recent neurophysiologic research about addiction is presented, including the stress-induced hedonic dysregulation theory. The connection between this research and the baffling behaviors observed in addicts — behaviors such as craving, denial, and persistent drug use despite negative consequences — is outlined. Finally, the ethical implications of defining addiction as a “disease” are explored, and a new non-punitive model of treatment — the “Occupational Model” — is introduced.

Kevin T. McCauley is not only a physician, but also the Director of Medical Training at Sober Living By The Sea Treatment Centers in Newport Beach, California. He provides informational lectures to help addicts, their family members, employers, and health professionals understand the medical aspects of addiction. Dr. McCauley is a strong advocate for the rights of addicts as patients and for their access to humane treatment. His experience as a flight surgeon assigned to a Marine Corps squadron gave him experience with the U.S. Navy’s preventive medicine approach to the problem of alcohol abuse. He was impressed with the phenomenal treatment outcome achieved by the Navy’s program and believes that this “Occupational Approach” to early identification, treatment, and ongoing support of patients suffering from alcohol problems can benefit all workers. He believes it represents a promising shift in the philosophy of addiction treatment, one which emphasizes the capabilities of addicts rather than their infirmities, and gives addicts the opportunity to reintegrate into society as valued, contributing members.

Thursday, May 18 – 10:00 A.M.

Seamless Continuum of Care

John Southworth, CADC, NCAC I, ICADC

Treatment is only one step towards an addict’s successful recovery program. We can redefine the current paradigm of repeated treatment cycles by adding pre-treatment intervention and post-treatment monitoring. By working together, an interventionist and treatment center can facilitate an addict’s recovery through the use of a monitoring program. This keynote address will examine the art of intervention and monitoring in order to facilitate a successful recovery outcome.

John Southworth has been involved in the field of chemical dependence for more than twenty years. He served on the Board of Directors for the Federation of State Physicians Health Programs under the auspices of the AMA and currently serves on the Board of Directors for the Association of Intervention Specialists. He has been the Coordinator of the Physician Recovery Network since 1993, as contracted with the Idaho Medical Association and Board of Medicine. He is also currently contracted with the Idaho State Board of Nursing, Board of Dentistry, and State Bar Association for similar recovery programs. He was recently appointed to the Governor’s Criminal Justice Commission to help advise the legislature in matters of addiction. He serves as a consultant for several treatment facilities, facilitates interventions worldwide, coordinates clients’ recovery treatments, and provides post-treatment monitoring services. He is a Certified Alcohol/Drug Counselor, a nationally Certified Addiction Counselor I, and an Internationally Certified Alcohol and Drug Counselor.

Thursday, May 18 – 11:15 A.M.

Recovery — Restoration — Effective Referral

Tom I.

Tom I. will present a condensed version of his story — a story of healing and recovery. He will also address the importance of good referrals and some of the factors to be considered.

SKILLS DEVELOPMENT COURSEWORK

WORKSHOP TOPICS LEADING TO COMPETENCY WITHIN A SPECIFIC AREA

Skills Development Coursework allows for the in-depth study of a subject during the Conference. The goals of undertaking one of these courses are for personal proficiency and skill attainment.

COURSE I

Clinical Assessment for Treatment

Monday, May 15, 12:30 P.M. – 5:00 P.M. • Tuesday, May 16, 10:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M. • Wednesday, May 17, 10:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M.

Our fields all emphasize development of individualized treatment plans or case plans. Such plans must rest on appropriate assessment of an individual's needs and strengths. This course provides an overview and understanding of evidence-based instruments and practices in conducting an assessment and connecting it to the development of treatment or case plans. Attendees will learn how to develop, document, and implement treatment goals based on the assessment results.

Presenters: Mark Emerson, Ed.D., and Joan M. Sheehan, LCPC, MFT, CCS

COURSE II

Developing a Female-Centered Treatment Model

Monday, May 15, 12:30 P.M. – 5:00 P.M. • Tuesday, May 16, 10:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M. • Wednesday, May 17, 10:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M.

In this course, participants will learn about the process of developing a female-centered treatment model for substance-abusing female offenders. The workshop begins with an overview of the pathways perspective, women, crime and substance, gender-based treatment principles, and gender-responsive strategies [derived from work sponsored by the National Institute of Corrections]. Building on this information, participants will be guided through a participatory process of designing a treatment model, including a discussion of program content, program goals, curricula, staff training, and other treatment program components.

Barbara Owen is a nationally-known expert in the area of girls, women, and crime, women-centered policy, and women's prison culture. A professor of criminology at Cal State University, Fresno, she received her Ph.D. in Sociology. Prior to returning to academia, Dr. Owen was a Senior Researcher with the Federal Bureau of Prisons. She has provided training for the National Institute of Corrections in areas such as operational practice and agency planning for women offenders, staff sexual misconduct, women and community corrections, and improving health care for women offenders. She is the author of articles, books, and reports. She is currently working with The Moss Group on the Prison Rape Elimination Act, developing research and training pursuant to the Act, and with the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation in its work on gender-responsive strategies for adult and juvenile female offenders.

COURSE III

Trauma-Informed Treatment Strategies for Co-Occurring Disorders

Monday, May 15, 12:30 P.M. – 5:00 P.M. • Tuesday, May 16, 10:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M. • Wednesday, May 17, 10:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M.

This course will concentrate on evidence-based assessment and treatment approaches for co-occurring mental and substance use disorders including an assessment of trauma and its impact on these co-occurring disorders. Participants will explore methods for trauma assessment as well as for using trauma-informed treatment models and practices. Because of common trauma exposure among female clients, information about gender-specific trauma approaches will be highlighted.

COURSE IV

Understanding Correction's Assessment and Clinical Supervision

Monday, May 15, 12:30 P.M. – 5:00 P.M. • Tuesday, May 16, 10:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M. • Wednesday, May 17, 10:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M.

For providers seeking to deliver ongoing treatment services to offenders who are supervised by the Idaho Department of Correction, this course will focus on how the Department of Correction plans, contracts for, monitors, and evaluates treatment services. This course will address research-based considerations for effective staff characteristics, evidence-based treatment models and approaches, and will identify clinical supervision and treatment communication expectations. The Department will share expectations and available support services for quality assurance. The Department's Objective Group Facilitation Skills Form, a means of observing groups to assure consistency with proven practices for treatment for offenders, will be shared.

CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES

- To present family-focused strategies, including intervention and engagement in treatment
- To provide an overview of “dual diagnosis” and successful treatment principles
- To familiarize treatment professionals with information and links to successful faith-based programs
- To identify new tools and strategies emerging from the most current research to strengthen addiction treatment and recovery support services
- To present evidence-based effective treatment approaches
- To provide skills and strategies for working with individuals with dual disorders
- To help participants gain an understanding of gender-based treatment principles and options
- To increase awareness of evidence-based assessment in the development of treatment plans
- To better understand Correction’s assessment and its clinical supervision program
- To familiarize participants with the framework of poverty and to teach strategies for creating bridges out of poverty
- To identify the continuum of care — intervention, referral, treatment, and recovery, including resources and after-care
- To explore and reinforce the importance of Drug and Mental Health Courts and their interaction with families and individuals during the process of recovery
- To explore selected current trends and issues of interest regarding treatment strategies and recovery management
- To provide an opportunity for personal renewal and professional networking
- To educate about motivation research and to show Motivational Interviewing as a strength-based principle
- To offer viable alternative options that are outside mainstream treatment and recovery approaches

BUTTERFLY SESSIONS

SESSION 1

Monday, May 15 . . . 12:30 P.M.

Building the Bridges Out of Poverty

Jodi Pfarr, M.Div.

Expanding upon her keynote address in this interactive workshop, Jodi will provide participants the skills needed to develop action plans to improve services for youth and their families with respect to socioeconomic differences in their communities. This session will also help create a better understanding of how economic class affects behaviors and mindsets.

Think Like a Judge: What Judges Want Counselors to Know

Judges’ Panel of involved District and Magistrate Judges

“Ex-parte communication”, “Canon of Judicial Ethics”, “due process”, “therapeutic jurisprudence”. These are just a few of the concepts in a judge’s reality that may be foreign to counselors and perhaps to other corrections professionals. This panel will focus on what judges want counselors to know about the challenges and opportunities facing everyone when the legal profession collaborates in multidisciplinary teams or when judges preside over cases in which human services professionals provide information and recommendations for action.

Think Like a Psychiatrist: The Psychopharmacology of Addiction . . . Part 1

Participants will be provided with a basic working knowledge of the neurobiology of addiction, learning about addiction’s effects on the body and brain, the brain chemistry of reward and pleasure, and the psychopharmacological treatment strategies available. Alcohol, cocaine, amphetamine, nicotine, opiates, marijuana, caffeine, and ecstasy will be discussed, and each drug’s mechanism of action, the positive and negative neurochemical reinforcements, withdrawal, and treatment strategies — current treatments as well as what is on the horizon. This will be done in a fun, fast, easy-to-understand format.

Family Case Management for Adolescents with Dual Disorders . . . Part 1

Kim Jardine, RN, MSN, BC, CADC

This course will review and discuss practical interventions for adolescents and families living with mental illness and substance abuse problems. The course covers family systems’ therapeutic approach for recovery through safe and healing family growth. We will cover depression, bipolar disorders, anxiety disorders, psychotic disorders, and antisocial problems needing attention in case management. Alcohol and other drug treatment interventions are incorporated into family planning.

Starting a Community-Based Healthy Marriage and Relationship Educational Program

Reverend Bruce Swanson
Tammy Payne

This workshop will detail how to engage existing and new community-based marriage, relationship, and parenting education and counseling resources to improve the well-being of persons recovering from substance abuse. This is a 1-2-3 of how to implement a healthy marriage and relationship program in your community.

SESSION 2

Monday, May 15 . . . 2:15 P.M.

Families: Addiction and Recovery in the Movies

Carla Dvoracek, M.Ed., MSW, CDC

Casey Jackson, LICSW, ACSW, CDC, CCFC

Casey and Carla are returning to ICADD with a follow-up to workshops presented in previous years. This time, the focus is on how substance abuse and addiction impact parents and their children. The majority of workers in any social service arena are grappling with these issues daily. Movie clips from Hollywood films are used as a medium to educate and inform about the power of addiction and recovery on the family system and to provide an innovative tool that will provide examples of how movies and videos can assist in the therapeutic process.

Recovery Support Services for Addiction-Based Populations: Challenges, Options, and Interventions

Joan M. Sheehan, LCPC, MFT, CCS

To maximize the effectiveness of recovery support services, this workshop has been designed to address risk and protective factors in serving persons suffering from addictions. Specific challenges found when interacting with newly recovering adults and their families will be covered. An introduction to the stages of addiction and recovery will be included. An overview of the impact of addiction on social skills, personal, and family relationships will be emphasized.

Family Case Management for Adolescents with Dual Disorders . . . Part 2

Kim Jardine, RN, MSN, BC, CADC

A continuation of Session 1 Workshop.

Think Like a Psychiatrist: The Psychopharmacology of Addiction . . . Part 2

Dr. Leslie Lundt

A continuation of Session 1 Workshop.

Pot Talk: Reaching Juveniles in Drug Court

Judge Thomas J. Ryan

Utilizing his more than twenty-five years of experience in the chemical dependency field, Don Medrano will share the most current information about marijuana, challenging the medical usage/legalization stance and giving participants information and tools to dispel these myths with adolescent and adult clients. Current information ["New School Concepts"] will be discussed, empowering attendees to discourage use/abuse with student and adult clients. To allow professionals to better conceptualize the serious effects of marijuana, examples of withdrawal symptoms will also be given.

the direct service arm of Family Justice. Highlighted topics include: assessing, engaging, and mapping family strengths and resources; creating and sustaining relationships with family members, including interviewing and home visits; coping with "resistance"; and responding to infractions. A combination of presentation, large group discussion, and small group work will be utilized.

BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND!

Treating Meth Addiction . . . Part 1

Eric Martin, M.A., CACD III

Award-winning national presenter Eric Martin is known for his sense of humor and unique insight. His popular three-part workshop covers the epidemiology, pharmacology, neuropharmacology, and research regarding cognitive impacts on methamphetamine users. It will also cover different types of amphetamine, language, and comorbid features among meth users. To assist in understanding the meth brain-behavior connection, Addiction Treatment Best Practices highlighted in TIP 33 will be combined with the clinical experiences of West Coast treatment programs and video clips of meth clients. Additionally, Evidence-Based Practices will be reviewed, including a brief overview of the Matrix Model.

A Model for DUI Court Treatment

Kenneth D. Robinson, Ed.D.

Come learn about a model curriculum for treatment of DUI offenders, including those in DUI Court. This curriculum is being tested and evaluated under a grant from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and is based on successful elements of cognitive behavioral treatment for this challenging population.

SESSION 3

Tuesday, May 16 . . . 10:00 A.M.

Case Management: A Family-Focused Approach . . . Part 1

Christine Toner, LCSW

Presented in three parts, this workshop will explore the tools, principles, and strategies that are the foundation of the Bodega Model®, a family-focused, strengths-based approach to case management which blends current best practices with the award-winning work of La Bodega de la Familia,

Session 3 continues on page 10

Reclaiming Futures: Community Engagement

Laura Burney Nissen, Ph.D., MSW

Want to learn how ten communities are helping teens in trouble with drugs, alcohol, and crime? Elaborating on her keynote address, Dr. Nissen will be joined by representatives from several Reclaiming Futures projects from around the nation who will share six steps that have been used to provide a "Coordinated Individual Response" for drug- and alcohol-affected youth in the juvenile justice system. These six steps include: screening, assessment, care coordination, service initiation, engagement, and completion. In this session, real life examples, tools, and exercises geared toward juvenile court practice settings will be provided.

SESSION 4

Tuesday, May 16 . . . 1:30 P.M.

Case Management: A Family-Focused Approach . . . Part 2

Christine Toner, LCSW

A continuation of Session 3 Workshop.

Treating Meth Addiction . . . Part 2

Eric Martin, M.A., CACD III

A continuation of Session 3 Workshop.

What About the Children? Addressing the Needs of Children of Drug Court Participants

Rosemary Tisch, M.A.

This workshop highlights issues and needs faced by children whose parents are in drug court (criminal, child protection, or family). What kinds of services do they need? What added stresses do early recovery and even drug court participation itself place on children and parents? The workshop will conclude with a brief overview of Celebrating Families! — a promising new cognitive behavioral group model developed and piloted with evaluation as part of the Santa Clara County [California] Family Treatment Drug Court.

Wellbriety for Prisons

Blaine "Woody" Wood

The Wellbriety for Prisons program is a culturally-sensitive, visually-oriented approach to recovery that combines the traditional Native American Medicine Wheel with the 12

Step tenets. The Medicine Wheel's teachings, when applied to one's life, have the power to influence significant changes in attitude, behaviors, values, and intent. The 12 Steps, viewed through Medicine Wheel teachings, reveal a natural path to growth in recovery in order for permanent, lasting change to take place. Wellbriety's focus is on a continuum of healing from prison to halfway houses/release centers to the community, as well as healing for the family while a family member is incarcerated. The Wellbriety Movement, and the concept of "Warrior Down", will be discussed, as well as strategies and obstacles.

Managing Recovery: Cutting Edge Strategies for Promoting and Sustaining Change . . . Part 1

Steve Gallon, Ph.D.

In this workshop you will learn about ways to improve your practice and get a glimpse of new strategies that are transforming the way we do our work. Learn what's "in and out" in research.

Addiction treatment and recovery support services transform lives. New strategies and tools are emerging from research that can strengthen the impact of those services.

SESSION 5
Tuesday, May 16 . . . 3:15 P.M.

Case Management: A Family-Focused Approach . . . Part 3

Christine Toner, LCSW

Continuing Sessions 3 and 4 Workshops.

Treating Meth Addiction . . . Part 3

Eric Martin, M.A., CACD III

Continuing Sessions 3 and 4 Workshops.

Family Intervention and Engagement in Treatment

Kenneth D. Robinson, Ed.D.

Learn about a manualized, home-based family engagement and intervention program using proven cognitive behavioral strategies from one of the co-developers of Moral Reconation Therapy®. This program is used in family dependency treatment courts and other mandated treatment settings. In addition, learn about a new manualized model for substance abuse treatment developed by Dr. Lasater and Dr. Robinson that can be used in conjunction with MRT.

Managing Recovery: Cutting Edge Strategies for Promoting and Sustaining Change . . . Part 2

Steve Gallon, Ph.D.

A continuation of Session 4 Workshop.

"All life is an experiment. . . . Finish each day and be done with it. You have done what you could; some blunders and absurdities have crept in; forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day; you shall begin it serenely and with too high a spirit to be encumbered with your old nonsense. . . . It is one of the most beautiful compensations of life, that no man can sincerely try to help another without helping himself."

— Ralph Waldo Emerson

SESSION 6

Wednesday, May 17 . . . 10:00 A.M.

Motivational Interviewing: Bypassing Resistance and Increasing the Readiness to Change . . . Adults

Michael D. Clark, MSW, CSW

Our field makes a common mistake: when substance-involved clients come before us, we immediately focus on telling them how to change and give them prescriptive advice while we miss the critical focus that they are back trying to build the commitment and decision to change. It is crucial to understand some well-intentioned efforts with challenging clients can actually make them more “stuck” in the problem. This breakout session will outline Motivational Interviewing, which is an approach designed to help clients build commitment and reach a decision to change. Stop the arguing and begin to enhance motivational levels. When MI is done correctly, the client presents the arguments for change! This session concentrates on methods of working with adults.

Faces & Voices of Recovery . . . Part 1

Neil Scott

Faces & Voices of Recovery is a group of advocates whose mission is to end discrimination, broaden social understanding, and achieve a just response to addiction as a public health crisis. Through its campaign, the recovery community seeks to: develop and implement public policies that support recovery from addiction to alcohol and other drugs; break down barriers that preclude access to recovery; change public attitudes to prioritize addiction recovery; and, show the public and policymakers that recovery is happening for millions of Americans and their families in communities across America. Mr. Scott, who serves as executive director of the Alliance for Recovery, hosts a nightly radio talk show which focuses on addictions and the reality of recovery. This radio talk show will be broadcast live in streaming audio during the Conference. See page 2 of this program.

Implementing Intensive Case Management Services for Multi-Problem Families . . . Part 1

Robert Hayes, M.A., MSW

This course will focus on the importance of networking and building strong community-based programs in your “neck of the woods” to help children and their parents who are afflicted with addiction. Objectives include: learning about a family-centered approach to problem-solving; listening and helping children say what they need to say without fear; empowering people to become agents of change; learning about the laws that govern the Family Reunification Act of the current administration; gain insights and understanding about how to enhance triage, communication, and cross-training to assist you and your agency to be more effective as a service provider and member of the natural team that helps bring about change; how to address hard-to-handle cases and chronic system abusers; and, how to measure outcomes and how to know if Intensive Case Management works. Data from a three-year project will also be presented.

DUI Evaluator Rules and Standards

Sherry L. Johnson, CAD/C

Want clarification on the revisions to DUI Evaluator rules? This workshop will provide an overview of the proposed rule revisions to the IDAPA 16.06.08 – Rules and Minimum Standards for DUI Evaluators. A brief question-and-answer period will follow. This session is geared towards current DUI Evaluators and will also provide information for those considering becoming a DUI Evaluator.

FEATURED WORKSHOP!

Sharing Language / Sharing a Vision: Integrating Treatment for Individuals with Co-Occurring Psychiatric and Substance Disorders

Kenneth Minkoff, M.D.

In this special, featured workshop, Dr. Minkoff will provide a theoretical and practical understanding of the “integrated model” for effectively dealing with individuals with co-occurring mental and substance use disorders, and identifies research-based principles leading to successful treatment. The integrated model is based on sharing the language and treatment philosophy of disease and recovery among both the mental health and the addiction treatment systems. See page 10 for more on Dr. Minkoff.

SESSION 7

Wednesday, May 17 . . . 1:30 P.M.

Motivational Interviewing: Bypassing Resistance and Increasing the Readiness to Change . . . Juveniles

Michael D. Clark, MSW, CSW

A continuation of the Session 6 Workshop, with an emphasis on working with juveniles.

Faces & Voices of Recovery . . . Part 2

Neil Scott

A continuation of Session 6 Workshop.

Implementing Intensive Case Management Services for Multi-Problem Families . . . Part 2

Robert Hayes, M.A., MSW

A continuation of Session 6 Workshop.

Session 7 continues on page 12

The Difference and the Hope

Pastor Randy Nurmi

In this workshop, we will look at the different approach and methods that faith-based ministries apply in service to those involved in life-controlling habits.

We will see how faith and hope affect an individual's recovery and how these two important components effect the recovery of an individual, whether in a faith-based or secular recovery program. We will also look at the role that faith and hope fulfill, and how they strengthen the life of the recovered individual to continue a life of sobriety on a day-to-day basis.

Co-Occurring Psychiatric and Substance Disorders: Assessment and Individualized Treatment Matching

Kenneth Minkoff, M.D.

In this session, Dr. Minkoff will describe a systematic process of clinical assessment (the Integrated Longitudinal Strength-Based Assessment) to match individuals with appropriate interventions, based on their subtype of dual disorder and phase of recovery. Specific techniques and treatment interventions will be offered for specific categories of clients.

SESSION 8

Wednesday, May 17 ... 3:15 P.M.

Secular-Based Providers' Role in Recovery Support

Landis Rossi, GCDFI

Secular-based providers can play a critical role in wrapping community services around adults and youth with special needs. Workshop participants will learn how to leverage resources and link service recipients to providers so they feel connected to their communities. Participants will also learn how to assess the needs, problems, and deficiencies for service recipients and assist them in making critical connections to the resources of the local community.

Harm Reduction: From Use to Management to Abstinence

Luciano Colonna

Harm Reduction is a set of practical strategies that reduce the negative consequences, including physical and social harms, of risk-taking behaviors and drug use. It is about improving the client's quality of life and preventing disease, death, incarceration, and isolation. The Harm Reduction approach incorporates a spectrum of strategies including safer use, managed use, and abstinence. This approach helps providers to effectively meet their clients "where they're at". Participants who attend this training will: understand the principles of harm reduction, participate in activities designed to assist them in exploring attitudes and beliefs about harm reduction, and develop practical skills and interventions that can be used in their work with substance users.

Connecting the Body, Mind, and Spirit: The Journey of Yoga

Camille Thom, Certified Yoga Instructor

Experience how the practice of yoga can address the needs of those individuals with addictions. Yoga is an empowering tool for healing both the body and the emotions. Consistent practice can restore health, strengthen the body, and bring balance to all physiological systems in the body. It improves coordination, reduces stress, corrects posture, and heals internal organs. Come and experience the power of yoga and gain a deeper understanding of what yoga has to offer you and your clients. Wear comfortable clothes and come with an empty stomach.

Motivating the Most Challenging Individuals with Co-Occurring Disorders

Kenneth Minkoff, M.D.

Based on the principles of successful treatment intervention, this workshop will explore methods for engaging the most unstable and challenging individuals with co-occurring disorders, developing an individualized assessment of their needs, and utilizing motivational enhancement strategies to establish empathy, develop discrepancy, and implement a variety of contingency management approaches to promote incremental progress.

New This Year!

Mental Health Court Institute!

For our 2006 Conference, ICADD initiates an interdisciplinary event to provide professionals who work with mentally ill offenders a new series of specialized courses. This begins with a featured workshop in Session 6 by Dr. Kenneth Minkoff, one of the nation's leading experts on integrated treatment of individuals with co-occurring psychiatric and substance abuse disorders. Dr. Minkoff is known for helping to develop integrated systems of care for such individuals, and more specifically, through the implementation of a national consensus best practice model for systems design: the Comprehensive Continuous Integrated System of Care [CCISC]. He has developed an integrated conceptual framework for treatment of co-occurring disorders based on application of a disease and recovery model — with parallel phases of treatment and recovery, for each disorder.

Dr. Minkoff will also be featured in additional workshops in Sessions 7 and 8.
